

Journal of Policy Research in Tourism, Leisure & Events

CALL FOR PAPERS

Special issue on 'Tourism Policy in the Asia Pacific'

The influence of the tourism industry in the Asia Pacific region has been constantly growing. This has required wide ranging policy shifts within Asia Pacific countries, and it is time to examine these and assess their impact on the region. It is also time for global academia to understand that the cultures, traditions, philosophies, and social norms of the countries of this region are creating uniquely new and significant approaches to tourism policy standards.

The Journal of Policy Research in Tourism, Leisure & Events (JPRTLE, SCOPUS-Indexed, Emerging Sources Citation-Indexed) is publishing a Special Issue on 'Tourism policy in the Asia Pacific' to provide an opportunity for scholars to publish their views on the unique tourism policies that are emerging in the AP region. This issue will provide an update on our rigorous policy research on tourism-related industries and their impact on the international tourism industry and its administration. Research papers on any topic focusing on policy in the tourism, hospitality, events and other relevant disciplines are welcome.

Research on the following topics is particularly welcome:

- ◆ Policy
- ◆ Politics
- ◆ Planning
- ◆ Development
- ◆ Governance
- ◆ Residents attitude
- ◆ Stakeholder relations
- ◆ Government intervention

Full papers must be submitted no later than June 30, 2017, by direct email to the guest editor. They will be blind-reviewed by at least two reviewers.

Please direct all submissions (in English) to:

Timothy Lee, PhD

Professor, Tourism & Hospitality Cluster

Ritsumeikan Asia Pacific University (APU), Beppu, Japan

Tel: +81 977 78 1224

Email: timothylee728@gmail.com

Guest Editor: Special issue on 'Tourism Policy in the Asia Pacific', JPRTLE.